*"These questions were developed because British Columbia's wild salmon are dying of politics. This election is critical. Our resources are being degraded by an out of control corporate economy.
We are a rich province, but only as long as we remain ecologically intact."*

- 1.) Will you stake your reputation that these Norwegian aquaculture companies are not releasing foreign viruses into BC?
- 2.) Will you work to build an innovative, land-based Canadian aquaculture industry to provide jobs to the 1,259 people directly employed by salmon feedlots?
- 3.) Will you remove salmon feedlots from BC waters within 12 months of being elected?

B.C. voters need to know: which federal candidates have the backbone to stand up and protect wild salmon?

Sockeye Inquiry

The Cohen Commission is a judicial inquiry into DFO's handling of the 18-year Fraser sockeye decline. For the first time ever, people outside government and industry are now scrutinizing the disease records of the highly secretive industry. As of mid April 2011, we have learned: DFO is muzzling their scientists regarding a virus in wild salmon, DFO considers the public's rejection of salmon farming a "crisis" and are working closely with the industry to change our minds. Salmon feedlots will be the focus in Aug/Sept. Public are welcome.

Salmon Feedlots are Killing Wild Salmon

The salmon feedlots are 92% Norwegian-owned, highly mechanized creating minimal jobs, shrouded in secrecy, harming wild salmon wherever they operate. They break the natural laws holding salmon stationary causing diseases to "go viral".

Wild salmon feed over 190 BC species, 85% of British Columbias call this fish an icon. Salmon are worth about $2 Billion in revenue from wilderness tourism and fishing, they have fed people for 10,000 years. Salmon are the bloodstream to the forests that make us oxygen, they are food security, we love them, they are a living symbol of democracy and we want them to be here for our children.

What You Can Do

Help us go door-to-door to get your candidates to go on record: Will they remove feedlots from BC waters?
